Daniel 3:16–28
aka: The One Where Faith Didn't Flinch

Three young men. One angry king.
A golden idol big enough to cast its own shadow.

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were told to bow or burn.
And they didn't blink.

They said, "Our God can deliver us from this fire. But EVEN IF HE DOESN'T, we still won't bow."

That's not arrogance. That's trust. The kind that says,
"God's goodness doesn't depend on my comfort."

So they went into the flames, bound, surrounded by heat hot enough to kill the guards standing nearby. But inside the fire, something holy happened. A fourth figure appeared.

And when they walked out,
not even their clothes smelled like a campfire.

SMA is a beer about faith that doesn't flinch when life turns up the heat.
It's about standing firm in who you are, trusting that whether God delivers you from the fire or through it, He's in it with you.

Because courage isn't the absence of fear;
it's choosing to stand tall anyway.
